Online Tutorials

Building relationships and technical credibility with your customers and prospects in communications

What are IEEE Communications OnLine Tutorials?

Tutorials Now – IEEE Communications Society’s enhanced conference tutorial program presents an online collection of recent tutorials given at IEEE Communications Society sponsored conferences. Corporate sponsors receive significant exposure through web banners throughout the tutorial.

Each tutorial is two or more hours in length, containing the original visuals and voice-over by the presenter. The tutorials review specific, current communications topics, including Wireless Communications, RF Communications, Optical Communications, Consumer Communications, Networking, etc. New tutorials are posted regularly. Contact us for a current list of tutorials available for sponsorship.

OnLine Tutorial Sponsorship Opportunities

Select a currently posted tutorial to sponsor exclusively for a minimum of three months. If you prefer, you can create, post and, sponsor your own presentation on the topic of your choice. During that period, sponsored tutorials are offered to everyone at no charge! A compelling free offer to design engineers, who would otherwise need to pay for access to each tutorial. You will receive immediate recognition by engineers as the company providing access to these valuable tutorials. Sponsors have the option of creating their own voice over powerpoint technical presentation on the technology of their choice.

Benefits to sponsors

Sponsored tutorials include your banner with link at the top of the page. Your exclusive banner is seen throughout the entire tutorial – over two hours! Sponsor receives tutorial registrants' contact information; valuable leads for followup!

Reach New Customer Prospects and Solidify Relationships with Your Customers

IEEE Communications promotes sponsored tutorials through email alerts, newsletter announcements, ads in IEEE Communications Magazine, and at major industry shows and conferences. IEEE Communications promotes the free access to sponsored tutorials, including your company name and website. Sponsors benefit from credibility and association with the quality of IEEE Communications’ technical content. Sponsors can also promote these free tutorials through your web site. Your customers will appreciate the free access, reinforcing your professional relationships.
